FALL FROM AIRPLANE BELIEVED RESPONSIBLE FOR CAPTAIN'S ACTIONS

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Camp Louds, Wash., Feb. 19.—Fall ing from an airplane more than 1,500 feet more than a year ago is believed to be the cause for Captain James F.
Byron of the 1st U. S. Infantry posing writing checks. The captain, who was confined in the base hospital here, admits it is possible court martial proceedings never will take place against him.
As he had a roving order no particular attention was kept on him until reports began to come in of a "strange army officer who was acting queerly."

Many checks are declared to have been cashed in Seattle and Tacoma bearing the captain's name which were found to be worthless. Army physicians declare the captain is not accountable for his actions and is probably will be sent to the hospital for the insane at Washington, D. C.

DOG SHOW PROCEEDS FOR THE RED CROSS

(By International News.)
New York, Feb. 18.—The forty-second annual dog show of the Western Kennel club, to be held solely for the benefit of the American Red Cross at Madison Square Garden, will open tomorrow and continue until Saturday evening.
Lobby jumping by a team of Russian wolf hounds, each a blue ribbon winner and of the purest pedigree, will be an evening feature of the show. One of them, a pure white, jumps 13 feet with the utmost ease and grace.
There are $25,000 in regular prizes and $30,000 in specials to be won by the successful dogs. Dog owners are doing their bit for the Red Cross by making liberal entries to help swell the receipts.
An unusually large number of women are donors of special cups and money prizes in both the large breeds and toys, their only incentive being to add distinction to the American Red Cross show.

PLANS TO BREAK RECORD AFTER WAR

(By Associated Press.)
Detroit, Mich., Feb. 19.—Joe Stout, former star long distance runner of the University of Chicago, who joined the American Red Cross and stationed here at Fort Wayne, will wait until after the war to make a supreme effort to defeat his track rival, Jule Ray. Stout recently obtained a furlough and competed in the Melrose Athletic club's mile and one-half race at Madison Square Garden, New York. Ray won the race. Stout was third. Stout claims that the poor time of 8:27 was the result of bad judgment in the early stages of the contest. The first quarter was run in 61 seconds and the half in 2:45. That took the pep out of the leaders.
Stout has decided not to do any more running until his war work has been completed. Then he hopes to tear loose again and it is an open secret that his ambition is to run against the mile record of 4:16 set by Johnny Overton hung up last year.
When Stout was at the University of Chicago he captured the conference two-mile run in 9:25 3-5.

More big league teams will train this spring in Texas and Florida than any other southern states. No less than ten clubs will get into condition for the pennant races in towns in these two states. The Chicago Cubs will do more traveling than any other team.

Their training camp is situated in Pasadena, Cal. The following list tells just where each club will do its spring training:
National League—New York, Mar. 10; Boston, Mar. 11; Philadelphia, Mar. 12; St. Louis, Mar. 13; Cincinnati, Mar. 14; Pittsburgh, Mar. 15; Chicago, Mar. 16; Cleveland, Mar. 17; St. Louis, Mar. 18; San Antonio, Texas.
American League—New York, Mar. 10; Boston, Mar. 11; Philadelphia, Mar. 12; St. Louis, Mar. 13; Cincinnati, Mar. 14; Pittsburgh, Mar. 15; Chicago, Mar. 16; Cleveland, Mar. 17; St. Louis, Mar. 18; San Antonio, Texas.

Harry Myers of the Redskins was the star all-around player in the National league last season. He secured records in four different positions: the outfield, first, second and third base.

Eppie Rixey, the Philly pitcher, is at Fort Worth, Tex., receiving a course in war training. Rixey is now a lieutenant, and after his course at Fort Worth, will complete his training at California.

When Miller Huggins took a team of major league stars to Havana, Cuba, ten years ago, it was announced in the newspapers that he was the "greatest hunter in the world," and that he could lay the ball down with a yard of the home plate whenever he attempted the trick. Of course Huggins was misrepresented, and when he failed several times to hunt Cuban baseball authorities became suspicious, and were a little to the late Harry C. Pullman, the president of the National league, asking whether the real Huggins was in Havana. Pullman's reply reassured some of them, but other skeptical skeptics until the little fellow left for home.

Fritz Mauer is one player who does not grow at the idea of going to St. Louis. Mauer believed that New York was his home.

Manager Huggins, of the Pirates, expects Tony Bonczek to make good at third base next season.

Eddie Murphy, the White Sox utility infielder has sent in his signed 1918 contract.

This winter has been a bad one for managers of teams in the Pacific Coast league. Of the six men who started last season at the helm of teams, five have either passed out of the league or have become members of other teams.

Tommy Leach, who recently announced his retirement from the game of baseball, has been seen at the home of his wife, Mrs. Leach, in St. Louis.

June Sassa, an outfielder, has sent his signed contract to the office of Griffith's Senators.

Twelve members of the Indians are in the second draft.

Walter McCredie predicts that Hol-lacher, the Cubs' new shortstop, will be a sensation next summer. McCredie developed such shortstops as Tinker, Bancroft, Beckenbaugh and Olson.

George Sialer hit safely in twenty-six consecutive games last summer.

Last season the New York Giants played forty-five errorless games.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, Feb. 19.—The patriotic rally held last evening at the high school under the auspices of the local Council of Defense, Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Loyalty Legion and Edgerton War Council, at which E. F. Trefz packed the auditorium of the high school with people eager for news from the front line trenches. Mr. Trefz was able to give a most detailed account of what is being accomplished on the western front as he has just returned from France, having been given there an investigating committee by our government. He described the method of Hun warfare and the outrages committed by them on especially the women of France, and Belgium, and made a strong appeal to the citizens to support the war to the limit. He gave an idea of the amount of money being expended by the United States by the German government to a program of propaganda in our country, and declared that the United States had established a like movement throughout the world to enlighten the people of the world in regard to the truth about America's role in the war.

He described fully the excellent rations and equipment that the United States soldiers in France enjoyed and compared it with the rations issued the French and English soldiers. The lecture was the most interesting ever given in the city and the audience was spell-bound from the time the lecture began until it was finished. The Girls' Glee club of the high school opened the program by singing "America," and the "Star Spangled Banner," in which the audience joined with a will. The Edgerton band played several numbers on the stage before the program. The citizens were most fervent in securing a lecturer of this type as it gave the citizens an opportunity to grasp the full meaning of this terrible war.

The Fulton Center Red Cross will hold a meeting at the Temperance hall at 10:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 21st. The hall will be open all day and the committee in charge will serve lunch to the workers at noon. Let everyone bring a large attendance.

MUSTEROLE—QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest, etc. It often prevents pneumonia. 3c and 6c jars; hospital size $2.50.

Says Pile Remedy Worth $100.00 a Box

Columbus Man Knows What He is Talking About.

I have had itching piles ever since my earliest recollection. I am 53 years old and have suffered terribly. I have tried many remedies and doctors, but no cure. About two weeks ago I saw your ad for Peterson's Ointment. The first application stopped all itching, and in three days all soreness. I have only used one 25c box and consider I am cured. You have my heartfelt thanks, and many everyone that has this trouble see this and give Peterson's Ointment, that is worth a hundred dollars or more a box, a trial, sincerely yours, A. Newth, Columbus, Ohio.

"It makes me feel proud to be able to produce an ointment like that," says Peterson. "Not only do I guarantee Peterson's Ointment for old sores and wounds, but the Eczema, Salt Rheum, Itches, Itching Skin, Eruptions, Blackheads and all skin diseases. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better."

This Pinex and sugar syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes that line the throat, chest and bronchial tubes, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better."

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, be sure to ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., St. Wayne, Ind.

Try Making Your Own Cough Remedy

You can save about 50c and have a better remedy than the ready-made kind. Ready done.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you would hardly have in them all the curative power that lies in this simple "home-made" cough syrup which takes only a few minutes to prepare.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (100 cents worth), add it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. The total cost is about 65 cents and gives you a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

Long Live The King

The conclave bent closer over the table. "Doctor Weidman, the king's physician, is one of us," he whispered. "The king lives now only because of stimulants to the heart. His body is already dead. When the stimulants cease, he will die."

Old Adelbert covered his eyes. He had gone too far to retreat now. Driven by brooding and trouble, he had allied himself with the powers of darkness.

He sat silent while the conclave cleared the table, and put the dishes in a pan for his niece to wash. And throughout the evening he said little. At something before midnight he and his host were to set out on a grave matter, nothing less than to visit the committee of ten, and impart the old soldier's discovery. In the interval he sat waiting, and nursing his grievances to keep them warm.

Black Humbert, waiting for the hour to start and filling his tankard repeatedly, grew loquacious. He hinted of past matters in which he had proved his value to the cause. Old Adelbert gathered that if he had not actually murdered the late crown prince and his wife, he had been closely concerned in it. His thin, old flesh crept with anxiety. It was a bad business, and he could not withdraw.

"We should have had the child, too," boasted the conclave, "and saved much bother. But he had been, unknown to us, sent to the country. A matter of milk, I believe."

"But you say you do not war on children!"

"Bah! A babe of a few months. Furthermore," said the conclave, "I have a nose for the police. I scent a spy, as a dog scent a bone. Who, think you, discovered Haeckel?"

"Haeckel!" Old Adelbert sat upright in his chair.

"Aye, Haeckel, Haeckel the joyful, the archconspirator. Who but I? I suspected him. He was too fierce. He had no caution. He was what a peaceful citizen may fancy a revolutionist to be. I watched him. He was not brave. He was reckless because he had nothing to fear. And at last I caught him."

Old Adelbert was sitting forward on the edge of his chair, his jaw dropped. "And what then?" he gasped. "He was but a boy. Perhaps you misjudged him. Boys are reckless."

"I caught him," said the conclave. "I have said it. He knew much. He had names, places, even dates. For that matter, he confessed."

"Then he is dead?" quavered old Adelbert.

The conclave shrugged his shoulders. "Of course," he said briefly. "For a time he was kept here, in an upper room. He could have saved himself, if he would. We could have used him. But he turned sulky, refused speech, did not eat. When he was taken away," he added with unction, "he was so weak that he could not walk." He rose and consulted a great silver watch. "We can go now," he said. "The committee likes promptness."

They left together, the one striding out with long steps that were surprisingly light for his size, the other, hanging back a trifle, as one who walks because he must. Old Adelbert, who had loved his king better than his country, was a lagging "patriot" that night. His breath came short and labored. His throat was dry. As they passed the opera, however, he threw his head up. The performance was over, but the great house was still lighted, and in the foyer, strutting about, was his successor. Old Adelbert quickened his steps.

At the edge of the place, near the statue of the queen, they took a car, and so reached the borders of the city. After that they walked far. The scent of the earth, fresh turned by the plough, was in their nostrils. Cattle, turned out after the long winter, grazed or lay in the fields. Through the ooze of the road the two plodded; old Adelbert struggling through with difficulty, the conclave exhorting him impatiently to haste.

At last the leader paused, and surveyed his surroundings. "Here I must cover your eyes, comrade," he said. "It is a formality all must comply with." Old Adelbert drew back. "I do not like your rule. I am not as other men. I must see where I go."

"I shall lead you carefully. And, if you fear, I can carry you." He chuckled at the thought. But old Adelbert knew well that he could do it, knew that he was as a child to those mighty arms. He submitted to the bandage, however, with an ill grace that caused the conclave to smile.

"It hurts your dignity, eh, old rooster!" he said jovially. "Others, of greater dignity, have felt the same. But all submit in the end."

He piloted the veteran among the graves with the ease of familiarity.

He Piloted the Veteran Among the Graves.

Only once he spoke. "Know you where you are?"

"In a field," said Adelbert, "recently ploughed."

"Aye, in a field, right enough. But one which sows corruption, and raises nothing, until perhaps great St. Gabriel calls in his crop."

Then, realizing the meaning of the mounds over which he trod, old Adelbert crossed himself.

"Only a handful know of this meeting place," boasted the conclave. "I, and a few others. Only we may meet with the committee face to face."

"You must have great influence," observed old Adelbert timidly.

"I control the guilds. He who today can sway labor to his will is powerful; very powerful, comrade. Labor is the great beast which tires of carrying burdens, and is but now learning its strength."

"Aye," said old Adelbert. "Had I been wise, I would have joined a guild. Then I might have kept my place at the opera. As it is, I stand alone, and they put me out."

"You do not stand alone now. Stand by us, and we will support you. The republic will not forget its friends."

Thus heartened, old Adelbert brightened up somewhat. Why should he, an old soldier, sweat at the thought of blood? Great changes required heroic measures. It was because he was old that he feared change. He stamped through the passageway without urging, and stood erect and with shoulders squared while the bandage was removed.

He was rather longer than Olga Loschek had been in comprehending his surroundings. His old eyes at first saw little but the table and its candles in their gruesome holders. But when he saw the committee his heart failed. Here, embodied before him, was everything he had loathed during all his upright and loyal years—anarchy, murder, treason. His face worked. The cords in his neck stood out like strings drawn to the breaking point.

The conclave was speaking. For all his boasting, he was ill at ease. His voice had lost its bravado, and had taken on a fawning note.

"This is the man of whom word was sent to the committee," he said. "I ventured to ask that he be allowed to come here, because he brings information of value."

"Step forward, comrade," said the leader. "What is your name and occupation?"

"Adelbert, excellency. As to occupation, for years I was connected with the opera. Twenty years, excellency. Then I grew old, and another—" His voice broke.

"What is the information that brings you here?"

Suddenly old Adelbert wept, terrible tears that forced their way from his faded eyes, and ran down his cheeks. "I cannot, excellencies!" he cried. "I find I cannot."

He collapsed into the chair, and growing his arms across the table bowed his head on them. His shoulders heaved under his old uniform. The committee stirred, and the conclave caught him brutally by the wrist.

"Up with you!" he said, from clenched teeth. "What stupidity is this? Would you play with death?"

But old Adelbert was beyond fear. He shook his head. "I cannot," he muttered, his face hidden.

Then the conclave stood erect and folded his arms across his chest. "He is terrified, that is all," he said. "If the committee wishes, I can tell them of this matter. Later, he can be interrogated."

The leader nodded. "By chance," said the conclave, "this—this brave veteran"—he glanced contemptuously at the huddled figure in the chair—"has come across an old passage, the one which rumor has said lay under the city wall, and for which we have at different times instituted search."

He paused, to give his words weight. That they were of supreme interest could be told by the craning forward of the committee.

"The entrance is concealed at the base of the old Gate of the Moon. Our friend here followed it, and reports it in good condition. For a mile or thereabouts it follows the line of the destroyed wall. Then it turns and goes to the palace itself."

"Into the palace?"

"By a flight of stairs, inside the wall, to a door in the roof. This door, which was locked, he opened, having carried keys with him. The door he describes as in the tower. As it was night, he could not see clearly, but the roof at that point is flat."

It Is There," He Said Thickly.

"Stand up, Adelbert," said the leader sharply. "This that our comrade tells, is true?"

"It is true, excellency."

"Get-it" Makes Corns Come Off the "Banana-Peel" Way!

Why have to top on the floor, squeeze yourself up like the letter "Z" and with bulging eyes draw your face up into a winking knot while you gouge and pull at the "quick" of a tender corn? That's the old, savage way. "Get-it" is the modern, painless, simple way. Lean over and put two drops of "Get-it" on the corn, put your stocking and shoe right on again, and forget the corn. Pain is eased.

"Get-it" has revolutionized the treatment of corns. It never irritates the true flesh. You'll stop limping on the side of your shoe, and do away with greasy salves, irritating bandages, thick plasters and painful methods. Use "Get-it," it's common sense.

"Get-it" is sold at all druggists (you need pay no more than 25 cents a bottle), or it will be sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Smith Drug Co., McCue & Busa.

"Shown a diagram of the palace, could you locate this door?"

Old Adelbert stared around him hopelessly. It was done now. Nothing that he could say or refuse to say would change that. He nodded.

When, soon after, a chart of the palace was placed on the table, he indicated the location of the door with a trembling forefinger. "It is there," he said thickly. "And may God forgive me for the thing I have done!"

Dinner Stories

Mr. MacTavish attended a christening where the hospitality of the host knew no bounds except the several capacities of the guests. In the midst of the celebration, Mr. MacTavish rose up and made the rounds of the company, bidding each a profound farewell.

"But, Sandy, man," objected the host, "you're not going yet, with the evening just started?"

"Nay," said the prudent MacTavish. "I'm no' going yet. But I'm telling ye good-night while I know ye all."

A class of recruits were being put through a preliminary examination in first aid work. Finally it came Patrick O'Flynn's turn to answer. The sergeant asked him the following question:

"Now, Pat, supposing a man were to fall in a drunken fit, how would you treat him?"

"Faith, sergeant," replied Pat. "O' b'gud, I'm no' going yet. But I'm telling ye good-night while I know ye all."

Bootmaker—Well, captain, I am glad to see you back; and 'ow did you find the last pair of boots I made you?"

Captain (an exchanged prisoner from Germany)—Oh! the best I ever tasted.

Tommy—Ow far is it to the camp, mate?

Native—About foive miles as the crow flies.

Tommy—Well, 'ow far is it supposin' the crow 'as to walk and carry a blooming rifle and kit bag?

"Tomorrow is my wedding anniversary. A time of romantic memories?"

"Yes, it is the third anniversary of my fifth wed'ing."

"Oh, fudge."

Janesville Wife Doing Good Work

"I have been bad off with stomach and liver trouble and bloating for many years. No doctors or medicine helped me. On the advice of my druggist, I bought a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy and I don't want to miss a single dose. It has given me more benefit than all the medicine I have ever taken. I feel I am doing good to recommend it to others."

is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker.

The Answer To Your Sales Problem

Whether you are a manufacturer of a food product, clothing, furniture, automobiles or hair pins you have sales problems that are daily becoming more intense. Probably the most acute of all your problems today is transportation.

Markets that you have been developing have been suddenly shut to you because of transportation limitations. Traffic experts say it will be a long time before the railroads will be able to make prompt deliveries of all classes of merchandise.

The salvation of the manufacturer facing this problem is the fact that there are certain markets that can be reached. A careful investigation will show you, as it has many others, that your distribution is scattered—very little consumer demand—and thus a small volume of business in proportion to the possibilities offered.

Right here is the answer to your sales problem, Mr. Manufacturer. Hunt those markets as you would a gold mine. Concentrate in them. Work them as you have never before worked a market, and in all your work and in all your calculations don't forget that the most powerful weapon you have to fight your battle with is newspaper advertising.

Never Before has a chain of circumstances combined in such Startling Fashion to hammer home the truth that Newspaper Advertising is most efficient and economical

Your jobbers and your retailers in your market know its power to produce sales for them. Your consuming public are responding to its appeal every day. You can buy it where you want it, when you want it and only as much as you need. No waste circulation in the markets you cannot now reach.

We, the Newspaper Representatives' Association of Chicago, are ready to help you find your market. We are ready to put all the resources of the newspapers we represent at your disposal. We are equipped to help you solve your sales problem. A letter will bring a man to your office ready to help you.
